K-2 Title I Reading and Math- Home Learning Packet

All students that are currently identified and receiving a pull-out Reading or Math Intervention have been sent leveled Title I materials with their regular classroom work. We have also compiled a list of online learning resources and activities that will be placed on the school website as well as a Title I website for all families to access. Each teacher will include this information in their correspondences with their students and families.

3-5 Title I Reading and Math- Home Learning Packet

All students that are currently identified and receiving a pull-out Reading or Math Intervention have a "Read Naturally" folder and/or individual skills practice materials for reading or math. These materials will be available for pick up with their regular classroom work. We have also compiled a list of online learning resources and activities that will be placed on the school website as well as a Title I website for all families to access. Each teacher will include this information in their correspondences with their students and families.

6-12 Reading Support-Online resources and support as requested

All students that have been identified for Title I support will be sent information (email or hardcopy) with ideas and resources to help with their at home learning during the school closure. They will also be provided a way to contact Title I teachers during office hours for homework help.

In addition, should the closure continue longer than expected, Title I will be using online opportunities for small group interventions, such as Go Math, Khan Academy and possibly small group online meeting sessions.
